

{mission}

I believe God has blessed me with the gift of photography. It's my joy to be able to capture treasured memories for my clients. I also believe God has charged me to give back to others. With that calling, I will be donating half of my {tsj} photography profits. In the future, when my start-up expenses are gone, I will be donating all profits.

In my giving criteria, it's important to me to find organizations where a small amount given, will go a long way to help those in need around our globe ... especially children.

I'd like to give you the opportunity to share in the excitement of giving. Please take a look below at the list of organizations I'm currently supporting ... let me know if something speaks to you and we'll get our donation off to that charity.
